THE IRISH PAPER MILLS CO., CLONDALKIN, ASK EVERYBODY TO

SAVE WASTE PAPER

It is not only the patriotic duty but is in the individual interests of every man, woman, and child in the country to collect every available Scrap of Paper so that the Irish Paper Mills may be kept running through this time

THE IRISH PAPER MILLS COMPANY guarantee that packs will be supplied and maximum prices fixed by the Government paid by their Contractors, Mesers. M. Duan and Co.

BANKS, PUBLIC OFFICES, and BUSINESS FIRMS having large stocks of old paper should get rid of it now, as the shortage of paper-making material is becoming very seute, and the problem is to keep Mills running.

the destruction and repulping of ALL grades of paper, and their contrac-tors will, if necessary, in the case of private documents, prepare the waste paper on the seller's premises and have it taken direct to the Mills and

The minimum quantity of waste paper which can be taken in any one consignment is one cwt. Carriage on smaller quantities would be prohibitive.

The Great Battle.

Yesterday's news disclosed no change of importance in the character of the great battle. Neither the new German attack on its northern flank mor the French reaction on its southern flank proves to have been a development serious emough to modify the general situation. The German attack on the British positions before Arras on Thursday was not renewed in strength yesterday, and no further attack was made on the rest of the front north of the Somme. For this relief the repulse which the enemy's effort suffered on Thursday is doubtless responsible. Sir Douglas Haig in his first despatch yesterday, tells us that in that effort our outpost line was only gained after several hours of severe hand-to-hand fighting, and that the reserves then sent forward against our battle with great losses. Our positions were fully maintained; ground was even gained and a number of prisoners captured in successful counter-attacks; and at the end of the day the enemy had nothing to show but "exceedingly heavy casualties." This gainting which had for its objective the legical of the great war for human wites the enemy was considered the great war for human day, when another Milton writes the enemy of the great war for human day, when another Milton writes the enemy had nothing to show but "exceedingly heavy casualties." This gainting which had for its objective the OMFORT, CLEANLINESS, AND able reticence, dismisses as 'local agencenta' South of the Souther situation is not yet so secure. The British front our forces been pressed back to a line at a cral radius of about ten miles from iens. The enemy's advance in this cition, however, is very slow, and the secure of the cuenty's massed battalions. The cition, however, is very slow, and the secure of the cuenty's massed battalions. long as there are achieving the purpose in view. The saemy, therefore, are still presenting their research for a military decision which will finally destroy the 'llies' capacity for resistance. This policy the Allies have

V.C. FOR DASHING AIRMAN. strength on the Allies' side. Before the battle began the Germans had a hundred divisions in line between the sea and the Swiss frontier. They had in reserve over seventy divisions of reasonably good material, and about thirty, or perhaps forty, more of indifferent material. A correspondent on the French front informs us to day that eighty-seven divisions have already been engaged in the battle during the past week. In other words, the enemy have engaged more than the whole of their reserve available for offensive action if the rest of the front is to be kept ade-The Royal Air Force will come into being on Easter Monday. On that day the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Naval Air Service will be merged in a single organisation, and our Air Power will, assume the dignity of its own control. The men of the two services may regret the disappearance of their distinctive uniforms and of opportunities for glorious rivalries in skill and daring; but the fusion will bring about increased economy of means but there has been no real unity. Double administrations and double staffs have not tended to simplicity of action, and there has been much loss of time and of manpower. Henceforward the single control will be able to make adequate provision for all the needs of a single service. Aeroplanes, airships, and other material will be allocated when and where they are higher medded; and moves can be made, or for Ireland.

Second Lieutenant A. F. Marwell, Second Lieutenant A. F. Marwell, Royal Irish Fusihers, son of Mr. William Marwell, Hyrtle terrant Northland road, Liehodonderry, has been admitted to haspital in Rosen, suffering from gun shot wounds in the right arm and leg.

the German reserves and the employment of the Allied mass of manogure. The control of these two factors constitutes a war of wits between the Allied command and the German command; and in this war of wits, so far as it has developed, the advantage lies with the Allied command. It has deliberately adopted a policy which assumed the highest fighting quality and the utmost steadiness in its troops. In that assumption it has been abundantly justified. Upon that assumption it has been abundantly justified. Upon that assumption it has been adequate to maintain it intact, in present design of the revenge, want to convince them that they have now in the man deliberate policy of sending hure masses of men to certain slaughter in the calculation that, by achieving a quick decision through sheer weight of numbers, they will shorten the war and save their man-power in the long run. They adopted their policy of "trightfulness" in that it would shorten the war by terrorising Belgium and France into quick subjection. The German policy of "fright-conceivably benefit from an of the accuration with Sir I adequate to maintain it intact, in pre-hand. For its success such a policy re-quires a cool head, an iron nerve, and an infinite patience in the command; stout tenacity in the men engaged. The least that we who watch the development of the battle can do is to emulate something of The Royal Air Force. The Royal Air Force will come into being on Easter Monday. On that day the Royal Flying Corps and the Royal Naval Air Service will be merged in a single organisation, and our Air Power will, assume the dignity of its own control. The men of the two services may regret the disappearance of their distinctive uniforms and of opportunities for glorious rivalries in skill and daring; but the fusion will bring about increased economy of means and increased efficiency in results. Hitherto the fiving services have co-operated loyally,

There is a clear call to national economy and we all must ed it and answer it, otherwise --?

Economy is necessary in small matters/as well as in large, and particularly in articles which are in regular daily use, such as TOILET SOAP.

But economy does not mean using a poor, low-priced article, because inefficiency means waste. True economy is the laying out of money, on necessary articles only, with a view to the best return.

In TOILET SOAP, bear in mind that a fancy box and ornate wrapper have to be paid for by you, and they are of no use to you. Therefore, you should see to it that your money buys "all so,, and the best at that.
